PHILIP, KENYA

In March 2014, Islamist terrorists opened fire in the Joy in Jesus Church in Likoni near Mombasa on the east coast of Kenya, killing assistant pastor, Philip Ambetsa, and five other members of the congregation. More than 20 others were also injured, including Sarah, Philip's wife, who needed hospital treatment. Sarah said of her husband's killers: 'I really forgive them from my heart because they are just human. I always pray that the living God will change their hearts and they will be born again and serve him. Life is hard, but I thank God because not a day goes by when we are angry.'

Please pray that God would continue to provide for Sarah and her family and would protect and encourage the many Somali believers in Kenya who are particular targets of attacks by Islamists.

Thank God that Sarah's business is providing an income for her and her two sons, who are thriving.
